Resident wounded while driving on Waveland Avenue

BY LIZ HAAS

Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell reported it was a pellet gun that fired the shot hitting Nicholas Ellington, 18, of Waveland, in the head as he drove down Waveland Avenue Tuesday.

"On 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, he was traveling north on Waveland Avenue in the area of Spruce Street with his windows down because of the heat when he felt something hit him in the right side of his head," reported Chief Jimmy Varnell.

Varnell said Ellington then drove to his home on Shipp Street and his father, Michael Ellington, took him to the police station.

"We looked at it and it appeared to be a gunshot wound," said Varnell. "He was almost in shock, but there was not a lot of blood loss."

Ellington was taken to Hancock Medical Center where x-rays revealed there was some type of bullet, either a pellet or a .22 caliber, lodged in his head. He was treated and released.

On Thursday, Ellington underwent surgery at HMC and the bullet was successfully removed.

"The bullet had not penetrated the skull. It was stuck in the muscle around the temporal area of the right side of the head," said Varnell.

Varnell reported at 1:48 p.m. Tuesday, Theresa Chappetta of Waveland said her car was hit

Investigation continues into wreck injuring 5

BY DAVID FARRELL

The Waveland Police Department is continuing an investigation into a Thursday, July 22, accident on Waveland Avenue near Carroll Street in which five persons were injured, according to Waveland Police Chief James Varnell.

The accident occurred about 9:28 p.m. when a 1987 pickup truck driven by Brandon A. Jacobi, 16, of Waveland, collided with a 1987 Oldsmobile, driven by Michelle Mauffray, 24, of Bay St. Louis. Both drivers were injured.

Timmy Kingston, Jr., 14, of Waveland, and Jerry Felder, 13, also of Waveland, passengers in the vehicle driven by Jacobi, were also injured, Kingston seriously. He underwent surgery after the accident, said Varnell.

2 die, 4 injured in 2-car accident near Diamondhead

BY DAVID FARRELL

Two New Orleans residents died and four persons were injured early Friday morning when two vehicles collided in the eastbound lane of I-10 near the Jourdan River bridge, a State Highway Department spokesman said.

The impact sent the vehicle in which the two persons died spinning out of control and careening down a deep ravine in the median.

Dead are Carlotta Lewis, 25, of New Orleans, and Michelle Williams, 27, also of New Orleans. Injured were Diane Murray, 37, of Kenner, La., Breana Moon, 1, of New Orleans, and Almeda Bailey, 46, also of Kenner.

Marlo Barnes, 21, of Biloxi, who was the only occupant of the other vehicle involved in the accident, also sustained injuries.

The patrol spokesman said the investigation into the accident, which occurred about 2:10 a.m., is continuing and no charges have been filed.

Besides the highway patrol and emergency medical personnel, the Diamondhead fire rescue unit also assisted during the accident.

Taxi cabs to set own rates

BY LIZ HAAS

The Waveland Board of Aldermen discussed Tuesday a request by John Broadwater of "Taxi" Cabs, Inc. for rate changes for his taxi cab rates.

"Most of the cities, like Bay St. Louis, Biloxi and Gulfport, say they don't regulate/set taxi cab rates," said Barbara Rappold, president pro tem.

She said, "I don't feel right about telling someone what they can charge for their services."

Board attorney Lucien Gex said, "The laws of competition will set the rates."

The board went ahead and approved Broadwater's request, but instructed Gex to change the ordinance for approval by the board next meeting to remove that part of the taxi cab ordinance stating the city will regulate taxi cab rates.

The board discussed the Chamber of Commerce workshop, a continuing education course, on August 10 and 17 from 7:30 to 10:30 a.m. at the Waveland Resort Inn.

"I think we should give one person from each department who wants to go the time off and have them pay their own fee of $10," said Rappold.

The board approved Rappold's recommendation.

Aldermen Stan Weidman presented a complaint to the board of Rhine Street, claiming it was a hazard to public safety and needs to be repaired before a serious accident occurs.

Rappold said the city would send a crew to check it out.

The board ratified a poll vote taken on July 22, authorizing Ames Kergosien to conduct appraisal on Lots 61 and 62, 4th Ward, Waveland. The property, owned by Aaron Brenske, is being appraised for the purpose of the city purchasing it to construct an extension of Herlihy Street to Coleman Avenue when St. Joseph Street Railroad Crossing is closed.

Knights begin flood fund drive

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis Pere le Duc Council 1522, Knights of Columbus, has established a special fund drive for flood victims.

Grand Knight Andrew T. Mitchell said, "Many Americans are now having serious needs because of the floods and the local KCs feel we should offer our support."

Those wishing to make a contribution can do so at any Merchants Bank in the area, as an account has been set up with the bank for the KC Flood Victim Fund.

"We are in the process of making connections with Knights of Columbus Councils in the flooded areas, as we know the monies will be directed to those in most need," Mitchell said.

Mitchell indicated that all Knights of Columbus Councils in the state are in the process of setting up special flood victim funds.

All of the donations will go directly to those in need as all of the volunteers in the Knights of Columbus Councils are unpaid, Mitchell stated.

Waveland welcomes Shoney's

BY LIZ HAAS

Shoney's, home of the world famous breakfast bar, is scheduled to open next to Dairy Queen in Waveland the first of November.

Construction of the 5,700-square foot facility will begin Monday.

"We're going to bring in a good restaurant for the locals and tourists and feel the location is a prime spot in the area," said owner Barry Abbott of Picayune.

Abbott also owns a Shoney's in Picayune. "This will have a good impact on the area," he said.

Abbott said locals will be hired for the 100-110 positions.

The restaurant, that will seat 180 people, may be open 24-hours a day.

"We guarantee a nice looking facility, something everyone can be proud," said Abbott.

"We're going to do an upscale store with landscaping and make sure the store looks good to the community," said general contractor Pete Corkern of Corkern Construction Company, Inc. of Lexington, Kentucky.

He said, "We're ecstatic about coming here."

"It's pleasant to come into a city where you are so welcomed," said Abbott.

A groundbreaking ceremony was held Friday for the new business.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

I like me conditionally

Fred Rogers has been doing a great service, an outstanding ministry to humankind for 25 years through his record-running TV program, "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood." It is certainly my hope and prayer that he will continue another 25 years.

However, the magazine supplement which did a story on him in March 1993 undermines the whole concept of this program with the title, "I Like You

Just the Way You Are."

There is no way we can honestly tell the majority of people, "I like you just the way you are." That means in essence: I am pleased with you just as you are. So, you don't have to change at all; I am comfortable with you right now.

If we seriously pursue this line of thinking that we should be able to tell people we like them just the way they are, we would be lying most of the time, virtually all the time, since we cannot like most things about most people.

The sober fact is, so many things displease us about most people that liking them overall is out of the question. This stems from the fact that like and dislike are totally involuntary reactions to what is pleasant or unpleasant.

We simply cannot like what is displeasing to us, just as we cannot dislike what is pleasing to us. At best, we like a very limited personality menu handed us by most folks.

This difficulty of liking others is apparent every step of our lives in whatever circumstances we happen to live. Unfortunately, it is most evident in the marital relationship where sheer intimacy magnifies whatever is unpleasant.

Combine this with our ever-present human urge to cheapen, to discredit, to overlook and to take for granted what is closest to us, and we have a recipe for potential disaster, unhappiness and hurt in our most intimate relationships.

In marriage, more often than not this translates into a unions where people claim to be in love but do not like each other, or, what is the same, are not friends. So, it is no surprise at all that the majority of marriages come undone.

Believe it or not, the problem is intensified manifold when we try to find something likeable within ourselves. If anything, there is the danger of becoming depressed and paralyzed when bluntly faced with our many personal defects.

Most people just don't like themselves much. If we know ourselves reasonably well and if we are totally honest with ourselves, we see many personality flaws and character defects in ourselves which bring us considerable displeasure.

Sometimes we are blind to it or choose to ignore it or be dishonest about it, but others readily see our selfishness and show their displeasure. Frankly, they dislike us.

Fred Rogers does redeem himself and his philosophy of life by avoiding the word "like" and by stating repeatedly each day and in each TV episode that we can and should love all our neighbors just the way they are.

Of course, we all want to be liked, even though we repeatedly do various things daily which render us unpleasant to others and even to ourselves. While being liked is a bonus, we must learn to be content with being loved.

Jesus gave us the only command he could: to love, not to like. We must remember, Jesus did not like us as he hung from the cross, but he continued to love us beyond all measure.

a passenger in the vehicle driven by Mauffray, was also injured.

All five were treated or checked at Hancock Medical Center following the accident. Mauffray and Kingston were held at the hospital. A hospital spokesman on Friday said both had been released.

Varnell said Mauffray was charged with driving with a suspended drivers license, and blood tests on both drivers were conducted. He said his department had not yet received results of the tests.

He said further charges are pending, based on results of the blood tests.

Varnell said Jacobi said he was blinded by the bright lights of an approaching car.

A Kingston family spokesman said that Kingston was out of danger and faced further surgery in about three months from injuries sustained in the accident.

However, the spokesman said, if all goes smoothly, Kingston should be back to normal in about six months, although he will not be able to participate in any kind of sports activities this year.

ON PATROL

ROBBERY

Jack Horne, 62, of Bay St. Louis was robbed Wednesday at 8:19 p.m. in Buccaneer State Park in Waveland.

Horne was sitting in a parking bay drinking beer at the Park when a vehicle pulled up and a female got out and asked him for a beer, reported Waveland Chief Jimmy Varnell.

Varnell said Horne gave her a beer and the car she rode in left, leaving her there.

"She then tried to solicit sex for $20, and he told her he wasn't interested," said Varnell.

The car returned, she asked for another beer and when he went to get it, a male got out of the car and demanded $20 from Horne, hitting him and saying he would kill him, reported Varnell.

Horne got his wallet as the male grabbed it from him and the suspects took off.

The suspects vehicle is described as a red foreign car with damage to the driver's side.

The male subject was described as a white male in his early twenties with light hair, referred to as Thomas. The female soliciting sex was described as a tall, skinny, white female with long black hair in her late teens or early twenties.

Horne also described a white female in the vehicle with long, light hair also in her late teens or early twenties. He said a baby was also in the car with long, curly dark hair.

Varnell said in Horne's wallet were $111 in cash, two checks totaling $900, his driver's license and various credit cards.

The Waveland Police Department received a call at 10 p.m. that night from a person who had found a wallet on the beach road in front of Buccaneer Park.

"The wallet belonged to Horne and was found with everything but the $111 in cash," said Varnell.

In charge of the investigation are Officers Laura Lachin and James Goss and Investigator Dave Stepro.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

My longtime friend Mr. George diBenedetto celebrated a big birthday last week, and the invitations made a special request.

The items Mr. George did not want were neck ties, wallets, shirts, etc. — instead bring food for the Food Pantry.

Well, the party was a big success, and a small pick-up truck of food was collected, and the Food Pantry is very grateful.

I know it is a little late, anyway, happy 'big' birthday Mr. George.

School bells will be ringing Friday morning for Bay-Waveland students.

This will mean more traffic in the mornings and afternoons as parents will be taking their children to and from school.

I think it will be a good suggestion for parents to plan on leaving home a few minutes earlier this year, as traffic has already increased since school closed last session.

It now takes a bit longer to travel about the area.

Motorists need to use extreme caution and remember, school speed limits will once again be in place.

I am hoping all students will have a safe and happy school year.

Personalized auto tags have been popular in Mississippi for several years.

There are numerous tags about Hancock County, and now tags for alumni and students of the state's eight public universities are available.

There is an additional fee of $50 each, but the scholarship fund from the respective university benefits when a purchase is made.

The tags have a logo of the university and contain a combination of five letters and numerals.

I have seen some about the area, but I feel there should be many more in the months ahead.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Choosing a physician

They say a picture is worth a thousand words, but sometimes words can paint a very frightening picture — that is the case with President Clinton's Surgeon General nominee.

Listen to what Dr. Joycelyn Elders said about how we should handle the problems of prostitutes with drug problems: "I would hope that we provide them Norplant (birth control device), so they could still use sex if they must to buy their drugs."

This statement sums up why I oppose Dr. Elders' nomination for Surgeon General of the United States. In one sentence, she advocates federally funded birth control for prostitutes, drug use and prostitution. It's insane.

During her confirmation hearings before the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, Dr. Elders defended those remarks saying that they were taken out of context, and adding that it would prevent crack baby births. Maybe it would prevent crack baby births, but drug-abuse and prostitution are the real causes of those births in this case, not a lack of taxpayer-purchased Norplant.

If the legal and moral wrongs of her statement are not enough, the remark leaves me with grave concerns about Dr. Elders' ability to serve as the nation's top doctor. It's alarming that a top medical professional would advocate birth control for drug-addicted prostitutes when more than 60 percent of AIDS cases among women over the last 12 months were related to drug abuse. Yet, she testifies before the Senate that she stands firm with this belief.

If her controversial views aren't enough to raise a few eyebrows, there also have been questions about Dr. Elders' financial affairs. While she was being paid as a federal consultant to the Clinton Administration pending confirmation, she continued to draw a salary as Arkansas' health director supposedly unbeknownst to the Arkansas governor. And, there also have been allegations that she voted to provide herself with a $230,000 line of credit while serving as a member of the board of the National Bank of Arkansas.

The financial controversies aside, what Dr. Elders advocated and said as state health director in Arkansas is cause for concern about what she might do as Surgeon General — the nation's greatest bully pulpit on health care issues.

During a newspaper interview in 1988, she said, "An integral part of a comprehensive school-based health clinic today is that we have sexuality education beginning in kindergarten."

In testimony before the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee in 1990, she said, "Abortion has had an important, and positive public health effect."

In a 1992 television interview, she said, "We taught them (teenagers) what to do in the front seat (of a car), now it's time to teach them what to do in the back seat."

Here's the effect of some of her policies in Arkansas: during her first 2 years, the state's teenage birthrate jumped from 4th to 2nd highest in the U.S.; from 1990 to 1992 the state's syphilis rate climbed while the nation's dropped; and from 1989 to 1992 the number of teenagers infected with HIV grew by 150 percent.

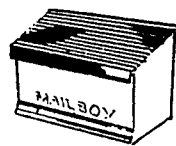

Dr. Elders is the wrong person for this important job. Her support of condom distribution in the classrooms, sex education for elementary school and young children, and taxpayer-financed abortions makes her out of step with mainstream America and much too radical to be Surgeon General. I fear that she would use the position to push her controversial beliefs, and I will vote against her confirmation.

Ice, Light & Bottling Works

Mule-drawn wagons delivered ice in the Bay-Waveland area before the arrival of the auto. The Bay St. Louis Ice, Light & Bottling Works was located on Third Street, (Blaise Ave.) across from the L&N Depot. A sign on the front of the building also offered steam and domestic coal to customers, the concrete slab from a later ice company at the same location still stands today. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Budget time in Waveland — make your feelings known

Dear Editor:

"Beware the Ides of March" — a famous quote from literature.

Be aware in August the new budget for Waveland is generally unveiled... perhaps "Beware the Waveland Budget" is apropos.

Waveland's financial statements reveal ex-Mayor Longo left us nearly a $2 million surplus which has been depleted, and the city is now living close to broke.

Where did the money go? Certainly not paving any streets or other essential services!

We've seen an exodus of volunteer help being replaced by paid employees, renovation of City Hall plus a surplus of personnel there; other frills such as Christmas lights on Coleman; spending of more than $20 a year per household to police just the Ladner Pier as fees don't generate much revenue; monthly trips by the mayor and other city personnel to attend "meetings" (all paid out of tax monies) and who knows that else.

And don't ask where the money goes or you'll be put down as ignorant. It seems our mayor and three board members think the money is theirs and can be spent like it's theirs alone.

Rumors coming out of city hall indicate various tax increases are being considered:

—10% increase of real estate taxes

—Add a garbage collection fee

—Raise utility bills... again

Even worse, our mayor is considering spending Waveland tax monies to install a new main to pump sewerage for Bayou Caddy Casino — yet we won't receive any gaming revenue as Bay St. Louis gets from Casino Magic. Let's hope an open public hearing on the budget will be held — better to express your views or offer alternative revenue sources.

Regards,
Royce Kaupp

'Toby' from Bayou Town talks about fishing trip

Dear Editor,

Toby here, from Bayou Town! School's out and we're having a great summer vacation! But, yesterday, me and my Dad went on a fishin' trip in Hancock County, and my animal friends reminded me that we can't ever take a vacation from our litter problem.

They had to swim around bottles, cans and plastic floating all over the water, and I'm worried that Mr. Raccoon, or my pet alligator, Alfons, might get hurt. So I wanted to ask my special friends for their help to keep reminding the big people not to litter.

You see, this spring, me and my good friend, Mr. Howard Lizana, the road supervisor, visited all of the elementary schools in the county. He's real smart, you know! He taught me and my friends all kinds of neat stuff about litter, and stuff about how to clean up our county and keep it beautiful and safe. The boys and girls were smart, too! They know all of the answers! But it made me wonder. If us kids know that litter is bad for people, the animals, and land and waterways, then why do so many parts of Hancock County still look so yucky? I was thinkin', maybe it really is up to us little people to keep reminding the big people!

Whew! We've got a lot of work ahead of us, but I believe in the Hancock County kids! I believe that they can turn this litter problem around and make Mississippi litter free!

So I'd like to remind Moms and Dads that a good litter-free attitude begins at home! Please help us kids to make Hancock County beautiful, so we'll have a special place to live when we grow up!

See Ya!

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Government payrolls grow

Growth of government payrolls in Mississippi continues to outpace many other sectors of the economy, according to the latest figures of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission's Mississippi Labor Market Publication.

Printed monthly, with an information lag of about six weeks due to the time it takes to collect and assess the data, the publication tracks changes in the state's nonagricultural labor force.

In March there were 188,300 full- and part-time wage and salary workers employed by state and local governments — an increase of 6,900 from March 1992. In other words, almost one of every five Mississippians who held a nonfarm job in March 1993 was employed by state or local government, including all levels of education.

Each category (state government, state education, local government, local education) surveyed by the Commission had a significant increase in employees in March 1993, compared to March 1992. The greatest increases came in education: 2,100 at the university level and 3,400 at the local education level.

Taxpayers should be asking themselves if the increased government payrolls have improved or expanded services provided by their tax dollars; or if the growth of government simply adds pressure to increase taxes.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

House Armed Services Committee authorizes local construction

The House Armed Services Committee has approved the authorization of more than $21 million to upgrade defense facilities in South Mississippi.

The committee recently authorized construction projects for Camp Shelby in Hattiesburg, Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi and Gulfport's Air National Guard Combat Readiness Training Center as part of the 1994 National Defense Authorization Bill.

Although I regret our nation's defense drawdown, these investments by the House Armed Services Committee, on which I serve, is a testament to the fine work achieved by the men and women who serve at Mississippi's defense installations.

As the drawdown continues, our nation's remaining bases each become proportionately more important to the national defense, therefore, Mississippi's bases are placed at a higher level of importance.

Once approved by Congress and the President, Gulfport's Air Guard facility will receive $5.5 million to build troop quarters, replace underground fuel storage tanks and upgrade the base's antiquated power system.

As Gulfport's mission is enhanced, the facility will upgrade many of the barracks that house personnel. The barracks were built more than 40 years ago, and with the increase in personnel over the years the living space in some of those barracks is so cramped that personnel have to climb over their own gear to get out of their bunks.

In regard to Camp Shelby, I can't emphasize enough the opportunities the Army Guard facility will be able to give personnel who attend classroom training courses at the base in the future.

At the present time, Camp Shelby's learning facilities are scattered all over the entire base, which is not conducive to learning. Shelby will soon have a state-of-the-art training and learning facility complete with classrooms, libraries and medical rooms.

Another key to the authorization bill is the $8.7 million slated for improvements at Keesler Air Force Base. Keesler will receive $690,000 to build a fire training facility, $600,000 for underground fuel storage tanks, $2.9 million to upgrade the facility's sewer system and $4.5 million to renovate student dorms.

The bill has been sent to the House of Representatives, where it is expected to be passed.

The Shades

Entertainment for Nereids fund-raiser provided by popular Coast musicians

Special to the Echo

On Aug. 14 the Hancock County Civic Center will rock with the masters of the Top 40's. With a repertoire of 250 songs, they're a little bit rock'n' roll, a little country, a touch of doo-wop and a whole lot of fun.

They're The Shades, the Gulf Coast band famous for their musical interpretations of the hits of the 1960's.

The Nereids Carnival Krewe is sponsoring their return to Hancock County at the krewe's annual fund-raiser: a fish fry and dance.

Formed in 1963, the band features Danny Satchfield as lead guitarist, Jimmy Haik on keyboard, and David Whitehead on drums. All are native Mississippians who came of age when being cool meant wearing "shades" and service to your country meant a year in Vietnam where Satchfield earned his Purple Heart.

As teenagers, Danny and Jimmy joined forces at Long Beach High to play for area proms. After several years of success, the friends went separate ways: Jimmy to Ole Miss where he played in the university band from 1966 to 1971 and Danny to Miami where he played with another band before being drafted into the Army in 1967.

After 13 years, the two got together again in 1979 to perform at a class reunion and have been playing nonstop ever since. Whitehead joined the two a few years ago when back surgery ended the career of The Shades' drummer.

The group continues to work steadily around the Gulf Coast from Pascagoula to Waveland. "One of our most memorable performances was at the First Annual Ship Island Party in June of '92," said Satchfield.

"Four thousand people were there and 700 pleasure boats. We needed special generators to operate our equipment and blew out three speakers getting it all set up."

From the red fish scales Satchfield uses to pick his guitar to the shades all three band members wear when performing, this band epitomizes the "sun and fun" spirit of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

They complement the fun-loving spirit of Nereids Krewe members who bring Mardi Gras gaiety to the Coast each year with a Ball Masque and parade.

The Shades performance at the Hancock County Civic Center begins at 9 p.m. on Saturday, August 14. Donation for the benefit dance is $10 at the door. A benefit fish fry will be served from 4 to 8 p.m. for a $5 donation. Entertainment between 8 and 9 p.m. will be provided by members of the Krewe of Nereids.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

As the old saying goes, "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen"—and stay out of it as much as you can these sizzling-hot summer days, by simplifying and streamlining your cooking. It also helps other areas of the house "keep their cool" along with you. It's far easier than you think

It takes little time to cook up spaghetti or twists or other sort of pasta, or to boil up a pot of potatoes, or cook up a pot of rice, all in the cool, or at least the comparative cool of the early morning or late evening. With portions of any of these in the fridge, you've the basis for other quick meals. A bowl of cold boiled potatoes tends to be a fixture in my fridge these sultry days, ready for turning into salads or hash browns and so forth.

Potatoes are good in stir-fry dishes as well. Sliced or cubed and rewarmed and crisped in a little olive oil, with chopped green onions, bell pepper and parsley, potatoes are a quickly prepared accompaniment to ham or chicken or fish, for example.

It's the same scenario of sorts with rice. For a tasty side dish, saute left-over rice in butter, with raisins and almonds and orange or mandarin chunks and seasonings.

Add chunks of ham or strips of chicken, or cooked shrimp, and you've an easy main dish with little or no "kitchen time."

And, there's pasta, that standby. I usually cook more pasta than I need for a meal, and store the leftover pasta in a bowl of water in the fridge. Next meal, drain the pasta, place in colander and pour boiling water over it and you're ready for another quick-and-easy.

I like to sauce spaghetti, for instance, quickly and simply with olive oil and seasonings and the freshest and ripest of chopped tomatoes, home grown if at all possible, or from a generous friends' garden. Just toss it all together, and heat up those chunks of French bread. Here's:

Shortcuts keep the cook out of the hot kitchen

SHRIMP SPAGHETTI BORDELAISE

(If you're using your leftover spaghetti, drain and rinse as above; if not, cook the spaghetti at mealtime).

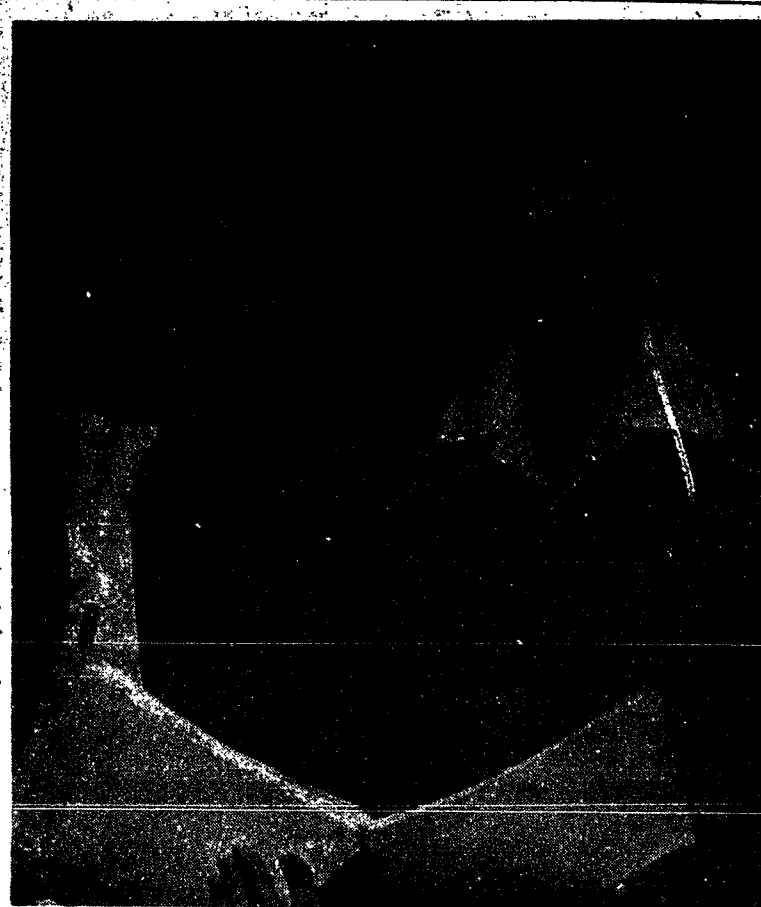

1 lb. medium shrimp, shelled
1/2 lb. thin, thin spaghetti
1/3 stick butter or margarine
1 Tbsp. olive oil, more if you like
2 tsp. finely chopped garlic
2 green onions, chopped
2 Tbsp. minced parsley
Pepper, salt as desired, also cayenne

Lemon juice
In a heavy saucepan, melt the butter or margarine over low heat, and add oil, garlic and green onions, dashes of pepper, salt and cayenne, and perhaps a dash of hot pepper sauce if you wish.

Cook until the garlic barely, barely starts to turn color. Add the shrimp and parsley, along with splashes of fresh lemon juice and continue cooking just until the shrimp are pinkish; don't overcook, or they'll be rubbery! Serve over the spaghetti. (4 servings)

This bordelaise sauce is also tasty with oysters or ham or chicken slivers or chunks. I like to add canned and drained artichoke hearts or mushrooms and so on. This is a good dish for a buffet supper, increasing the proportions as needed.

Bay scientist leads expedition to Baltic

Special to the Echo
A five-year Naval Research Laboratory (NRL) program, begun in July 1981 under the direction of Bay St. Louis scientist Dr. Michael D. Richardson, addresses environmental processes that affect mine countermeasures (MCM) and amphibious warfare (AMW) operations in coastal waters.

The benthic boundary layer (BBL), the zone from about a meter above the sediment-water interface to 2-3 meters into the bottom, was chosen as the focal point of the program.

According to Richardson, this is an important zone because it is the most active area of change in sediment properties. Numerous benthic or bottom animals inhabit this zone turning over the sediment like earthworms.

Ocean waves and currents constantly interact with the bottom, changing its character. Important chemical reactions which affect pollution also occurs in the BBL.

But why is BBL important to the Navy?

"The Navy, as part of its mine countermeasures program, needs to be able to determine the location of mines and either avoid them or destroy them," said Richardson.

"If our troops invade a beach or go through a choke point, our MCM ships must know where mines bury and how hard they will be to find." Any biological, physical or chemical change of sediments in the benthic boundary layer can affect our capability to detect, classify and neutralize such mines.

The objective of the program, then, is to improve the performance and prediction of the MCM systems used to detect, classify and neutralize mines located in or on the bottom.

Each type of sediment has a particular structure and a unique set of properties.

If the Navy is to be able to predict mine burial or mine detection, studies must be made of the environmental processes that are responsible for the distribution of sediment structure or properties, and models must be created to determine the impact of these processes on mine detection and mine burial.

Remote sediment classification (i.e., determining sediment properties using acoustic or electromagnetic techniques) plays an important role in the prediction process. The need to know the sediment type in areas of potential conflict is crucial to the Navy.

The plan of the CBBL program is to conduct a series of at-sea experiments in areas with different sediment types to develop computer models of the BBL. The first set of experiments was a joint exercise with the Forschungsanstalt der Bundeswehr für Wasserschall und Geophysik (FWG) located in Kiel, Germany, and conducted in Eckernförder Bay in the Baltic Sea. This site was chosen because its sediment contains methane gas.

Study of the Eckernförder's gassy sediment is important for developing an understanding of the effects of geochemical and biochemical processes on the formation of methane bubbles and the subsequent impact these bubbles have on sediment properties in the BBL.

Three of the four joint NRL/FWG cruises investigating the formation and structure of gassy sediments of the Eckernförder Bay have been completed. The first cruise characterized sediments by remote acoustic methods and direct sediment sampling.

On the second cruise (conducted March 29 - April 3 aboard the FWG research vessel Plante), scientists deployed acoustic and environmental towers to monitor long term changes in high-frequency bottom scattering, hydrodynamic processes (bed stress from bottom currents) and sediment transport processes.

The main experiment was conducted April 20 through June 5 and included 80 US, German and British scientists and technicians from 18 research organizations. Support from FWG, the German navy and the Institute of Geology and Paleontology University of Kiel included seven ships, a navy dive team, a recompression chamber, laboratory space, customs and numerous other shore-based logistic support activities.

The NRL contingent concentrated on acoustic bottom scattering; sediment classification; and insitu geacoustic, physical, electrical and physical characterization of near surface sediments, while university contractors conducted temporal studies of acoustic bottom scattering; biological processes; sediment dynamics; methane gas bubble size, distribution and biochemical generation.

The cooperative effort with FWG is the result of a mine countermeasures/mine warfare data exchange agreement with Germany. The U.S. has several data exchange agreements in place with many different countries which allow an exchange of information and create a legal mechanism for the U.S. to work with the scientific organizations within those countries.

The first day

Steps help prepare young children to start school

By Bethany Waldrop
MSU Ag Communications
The first day of school is important to all parents, but it's especially important to parents of children starting kindergarten or first grade.

"A child's first day of school is stressful for families, and depending on the parents' attitude, it may be stressful for the child," said Norine Barnes, interim state leader of extension home economics at Mississippi State University.

"Whether or not a child feels this stress depends on his personality as well as past experiences."

Parents can help children ready themselves for school by having a positive attitude toward school and positive expectations that the child can handle the new situation.

"To assure the best start for your child, make a chronological list of preparations for the first day of school," Barnes said. "Each parent should make an individual plan to benefit their child."

Barnes suggested that parents:

—Check the child's medical record and be sure all shots are up to date. If the child will need a trip to the health department or doctor's office, make the appointment as soon as possible. Doctor's offices often are crowded just before school starts.

—Think seriously about the child's readiness for school. If the child's kindergarten or nursery school teacher recommends holding the child back, give the suggestion serious consideration.

—Begin making plans for after-school child care, if it will be necessary, and fully explain the plans to the child.

—Three to five days before school starts, call the school and make arrangements for a dry run. Start at the bus stop and then go to the school grounds. Walk through the child's day by going to the classroom or assembly area, then to the bathroom, cafeteria and library. Make the visit a pleasant one. Children with a hesitant temperament need this trip the most.

Since not all parents can find time during the work week to take this trip to the school, an adult friend or relative could take the child inside the school, leaving the school grounds to be explored by parent and child on the weekend or after work.

From the first day of school, establish an afternoon and evening routine for the child. For the beginner the routine may be a blend of quiet time with books and educational toys, later to become homework time; active playtime, outdoors whenever possible; household chores; limited TV time and a consistent bedtime.

"During the first few weeks of school, parents should try to be better-than-usual listeners," Barnes said. "Encourage the child to open up by using 'feeling' responses instead of asking too many questions."

"If the child says he doesn't like eating in the cafeteria, instead of asking why, ask how the child feels when he is in the cafeteria. Then try to empathize with the child instead of lecturing," Barnes said.

If the child has a lot of questions about starting school, make sure that your answers reflect reality. The more realistic parents are about what school is really like, the less surprised the child will be.

Some realistic expectations for children include learning about new books, getting ready to read, hearing new stories and working with other children to learn new things.

"A good relationship with the child's teacher is very important," Barnes said.

"A feeling of mutual support should be established between parent and teacher very early in the school year. Visits, calls and brief notes can help establish this relationship."

If the child doesn't like school immediately, don't get discouraged — just keep encouraging the child at home, Barnes said.

Introduced by the student council under the leadership of Mallory Mestayer, the new uniform was approved by the school board, administration, faculty, parents and students.

Only new students of OLA for 1993-94 will be required to purchase the entire new uniform. Students reregistering will have the option of continuing to wear the present uniform until they graduate, of buying the new uniform, or of adding the walking shorts to the present uniform.

The uniform contract has been placed with Young Fashions from New Orleans. The new skirt, blouse, walking shorts and socks may be purchased on Aug. 9 when Young Fashions sets up shop on campus.

Practice bus run set at Hancock Schools

Charles B. Murphy Elementary, Thursday, Aug. 12

The "dry run" will allow the drivers the opportunity to confirm routes, times and student loads prior to the first day of school, Aug. 13. This will allow the parents a chance to identify their child's bus number and pick-up times.

Parents should attempt to meet busses at approximately the same time as last year. It is suggested that parents be at the pick-up points 10 or 15 minutes early. New students should check with neighbors to get approximate times and pick-up points.

The opening of school each year requires an adjustment of all routes and schedules.

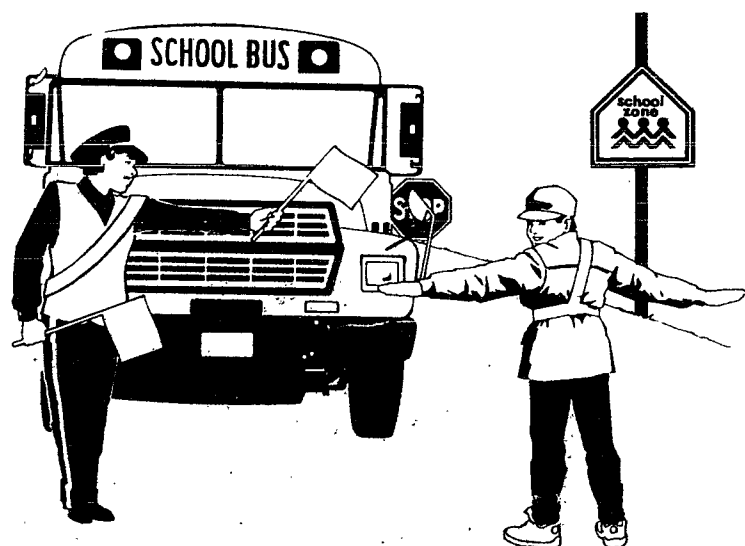

The Hancock County School District will make a practice run of all bus routes planned for the 1993-94 school year beginning Monday, August 9.

Each bus will make all of its planned stops and terminate at the appropriate school on the dates shown:

OLA expands to meet growing enrollment

OLA student Julie Ladner and principal Sister Donella Hartman stand in front of new addition

Our Lady Academy is a Catholic Christian all-girl junior/senior high school for grades 7-12 located on the beach in Bay St. Louis.

Owned by Our Lady of the Gulf Parish, Our Lady Academy is staffed by the Religious Sisters of Mercy and a dedicated lay faculty.

OLA was founded in 1971 to provide Catholic education for young ladies at the junior and senior high school level and to continue the solid educational program maintained by St. Joseph Academy and the Sisters of St. Joseph from 1855 to 1967.

Because of an enrollment increase during the last two years, OLA will open a new building of six classrooms this fall. The enrollment for the 1993-94 school term is expected to be approximately 250.

OLA shares some classes, facilities, sports and other activities with St. Stanislaus, located next to OLA on the beach and staffed by Brothers of the Sacred Heart and a large lay faculty.

Although OLA is a Catholic Christian institution, it welcomes students of other religions and does not discriminate "on the grounds of race, color, or national or ethnic origin" in the administration of educational policies, applications for admission and scholarships and athletic and co-curricular programs.

Our Lady Academy is fully approved by the Mississippi State Department of Education and the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges and is a member of the National Catholic Education Association.

As a small school, OLA embraces a family-like atmosphere, a low student-teacher ratio, and a heterogeneous student body. These characteristics enhance the school's ability to emphasize the uniqueness and dignity of each student.

- Encourage pupils to use extreme caution in getting to and from their assigned bus stop.
- Remind them not to play on or near the road while waiting for the bus.

Applications and instructions for applying for meal benefits will be sent home with each student during registration or on the first day of attendance. To apply for the meal benefits, a household should fill out the application and return it to the school or center.

Additional copies of the application are available at the administrative office of each facility.

For the school/center officials to determine eligibility, the household must report income information or provide a food stamp or AFDC case number.

If the child receives AFDC payments or is a member of a food stamp household, the parent or guardian only has to provide the name of child, food stamp or AFDC case number, and sign the application.

Other applicants must report the total household income and each amount and source of income received by each household member.

In order for income applicants to be approved, the household must also provide the following on the application: the names of all household members; each household member's

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for purposes of determining eligibility and verifying data. The information provided may be verified at any time during the year by school/center or program officials.

Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household should contact the school/center.

Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for reduced price or free meals if the household's income falls at or below the levels shown in the income scales. Households may apply for benefits at any time during the year as circumstances change.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for meal benefits. If a household has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for meal benefits for them, the household should contact the school/center for more information.

Each school/center has a copy of the approved free and reduced meal policy. The policy indicates who is responsible for determining eligibility. The determining official is, in most instances, the principal, the food service supervisor, or the center director.

Each school/school district/center has an individual named as the hearing official. Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the determining official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

Parents wishing to make a formal appeal may make a request either orally or in writing to the hearing official. The school/center office or the superintendent's office staff can provide you the name, address and phone number of the hearing official.

St. Clare School celebrates name sake's 800th birthday

Special to the Echo
St. Clare School, located on Beach Boulevard in Waveland, overlooks the beautiful Mississippi Gulf Coast.

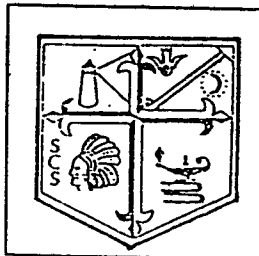

St. Clare Catholic School strives to be a living Christian community where students are encouraged and supported to reach the fullness of their potential spirituality, intellectually, emotionally, socially and physically.

The curriculum consists of religion, language arts, phonics, mathematics, science, social studies, art, music, handwriting, library, computer and physical education. Many extra-curricular activities are also sponsored after school, such as precision, drama, choir and enrichment activities.

The 1993-94 school year will begin with 200 students Monday, Aug. 16.

This will be a special year of celebration in honor of St. Clare's 800th anniversary of her birth. Many activities honoring this event are planned throughout the year.

St. Clare's faculty includes Harriet Bellone, Darlene Green, Maria Lott, Marietta Murray, Susan Ladner, Bobbie Worrel, Mary Gobert and Susan Simonson with Sister Jane Bircher as principal.

Dominion Christian Academy offers K through 12

Dominion Christian Academy is a non-denominational school which uses the Accelerated Christian Education (ACE) curriculum used by more than 7,000 schools across the United States.

William and Margaret Delcuze founded the school in 1989 as an alternative to the traditional classroom which assumes that students of a certain age should all be in the same grade level, and learn at the same rate.

Dominion's program stresses individuality, one-on-one instruction and a personalized curriculum.

Computer programs supplement elementary academics and in-depth computer literacy credits are offered at the high school level.

Uniforms are worn by students and include red or white knit shirts and navy slacks for boys and red or white sport shirts with red plaid skirts for girls. Younger girls wear plaid jumpers.

The school year begins on August 30. For additional information, call 467-7149 or 467-6140.

Good study habits a must to succeed on college level

Frenzied, late-night cramming for exams may be your ticket to passing grades in high school, but poor study habits spell disaster for college students.

Incoming college freshmen, including "A" students, often feel the study methods that earned them high marks over the past 12 years will easily sustain them at the university level as well.

work on improving study habits, the better, Minor said. "We've learned that, for incoming freshmen, starting early in the development of good study habits really makes a difference."

Every student approaches the learning process in a unique way. One student may have superior memory skills, while another can better comprehend complex ideas and theories. Yet their class schedules and make sure they know how to find the classrooms, when the classes begin and the names of the professors. They should also familiarize themselves with the class syllabus, and note dates of tests, papers due and other deadlines. An appointment book is handy for keeping up with these dates, Minor said.

The basic necessities of the classroom — books, pens and paper — should not be overlooked. Students also should learn what Minor termed "the art of note taking and editing," in order to glean and keep on hand the vital information from pages and pages of notes.

A student should plan each day ahead of time, allowing for fun and recreation, as well as study. A time management schedule, which a counselor can help prepare, keeps the student on track and in the right place at the right time. "It's important to feel that you're in control of your time," Minor said.

It also pays to get to know your professor, Minor pointed out. "It's important to establish a rapport with your professor. He or she is a person you're there to please."

Perhaps the most important element to success in college is the ability to think and reason critically in order to solve problems, Minor said.

"You must be able to look a both students may be unable to express themselves orally or may panic at test time. With a counselor's help, these individuals can learn how to capitalize on their skills and minimize their deficiencies.

There are several basic skills and approaches to learning that work for everyone, Minor said. Two of the most important are preparation and time management.

To prepare for a new semester, students should first study

But they're dead wrong, according to Ardessa Minor, director of The University of Mississippi's Learning Development Center.

"With that attitude, many freshmen will flunk their first fall semester," Minor said. "College is a whole new ballgame, with a completely different system. The burden to adapt is always on the students, who must learn to change their own behaviors."

problem squarely in the eye and deal with it. The decision-making power is crucial, and it requires critical thinking or good, old-fashioned savvy, whatever you want to call it."

Critical thinking is an "audio-visual process of awareness that encompasses everything going on around you. It requires a careful, thoughtful evaluation of what's going on, of influences upon you. It calls for a determination of personal values, feelings, desires and goals."

While there are many programs that can help a student become a critical thinker, the individual must recognize the need for these skills and act accordingly, the Center's director said. In fact, all the programs in the world won't help the student who isn't willing to work.

Immunizations mandatory for back-to-school crowd

Mississippi now requires its children to have two doses of measles vaccine before entering school for the first time.

One dose each of measles vaccine, mumps vaccine, and rubella vaccine is required for all Mississippi students. The immunizations are usually administered as MMR vaccine.

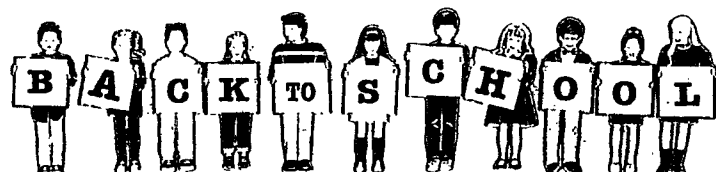

cent immunization compliance rate.

"This is one area where Mississippi has an outstanding record," Hotchkiss said. "We want to keep up the good work in protecting our children against these diseases."

Parents can take their children to a county health department, that verifies completion of all immunizations.

For more information, readers may contact the local county health department, the Mississippi State Department of Health Immunization Program at 960-7751, or the Office of Health Communications and Public Relations at 960-7667.

Two doses of measles vaccine are now required for "first time enterers." First time enterers are five-year-old kindergarten entrants, first grade entrants who did not attend kindergarten, and students transferring to a Mississippi school from out-of-state.

The second measles immunization is often given as a second dose of MMR vaccine. The Mississippi State Department of Health recommends two doses of MMR vaccine for all students.

Mississippians generally do a good job of getting their children immunized for school, said Dr. Bob Hotchkiss, acting chief of the Mississippi State Department of Health Bureau of Preventive Health Services.

Last year the state's school age children boasted a 98.6 percent immunization compliance rate. Many county health departments schedule special immunization clinics as well.

The Mississippi State Department of Health provides about 85 percent of the state's childhood immunizations. Those immunizations provide protection against polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, measles, mumps and rubella.

Children entering kindergarten must have either a Temporary Compliance Form that proves they have begun their series of immunizations or a Certificate of Immunization Compliance, also called a blue

WARNING! WARNING! BE ON THE LOOK OUT...

School's back in session and in the excitement of the new school year, many school-age children, especially the young ones, may forget to look both ways when crossing the street or exiting the school bus.

That leaves it up to you as a driver, to be extra careful around schoolyards, neighborhood play areas, and departing school buses.

So remember...when you see yellow, be sure to see red—as in red alert. Let's all slow down and give our children the chance they deserve.

The Kiln Water and Fire Protection District Board of Commissioners approved Tuesday to expand the boundaries of the district, upon approval by Hancock County Board Supervisors.

The area annexed, previously not already part of other district, would be approximately 640 acres south of west of the Jourdan River north of Bayou La Croix east of Highway 43.

"We are already collecting taxes from that area south of I-10 that's not in our district," said chairman Cleveland Wyatt.

He said the area was annexed to the district to collect taxes because it was not paying any other district.
